Funeral Services For James Hawkins

Funeral serviees over the remains of James Hawkins, who passed away last Friday evening at home, were held in the 2nd Ward Chapeel Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. with Bishop L.L. Palmer in charge. The hall was filled wtih friends and aequaintances of deceased, who gathered to show their respect to deceased and his family. Jos. Mc Lean was in charge of the Choir with Mrs. Emma Dahl at the organ, and members of both ward choirs assisting in the singing. Pall bearers, all friends of the family were: J. F. Salmon, D. A. Bennett, Geo. E. Court, A. J. Waton, C. B. Smith and E. L. Paxman. The lovely floral offerings covered the deep grey casket and the rostrum.

The choir sang "Sometime We Will Understand' and the invoeation was pronounced by Elder M. T. King and the second hymn was 'Sweet hour of Prayer.'

In his opening remarks Bishop Palmer spoke of the patience in suffering of deceased who had been afflicted for sixteen years, the last four or five of which had been very bad, and for six months past deceased had been almost helpless. He paid tribute to his faithful services in the Church and to the fine family, who were carrying on so well. He mentioned Mrs. Hawkins, who had raised the children of her family and also deceased's and who had been so devoted to her late husband during his long years of illness.

Elder Golden Snow was the first speaker, and referred to his intimate acquaintance with deceased for a long peried of time and of their laboring together in the O. K. Braneh when it was carrying on. He said he was always a few minutes early to every appointment was aways prepared, and during twenty-seven years of service in the Sunday School there had been few if any more faith ful. Deceased had assisted greatly in building up the Raymond district, eoming here more than forty years ago, and for some years ha dbeen blacksmith and in the implement business before he started farming. He was honest, dependable and a good workman and a man that anyone could be proud to call a friend.

Elder J. H. Walker, former bishop of Raymond 2nd Ward had known deceased for more than forty years during which time he had had many business dealings with him and he always found him honest and anxious to meet all of his obligations. He had associated in various activities with all members of the Hawkins family, and his life had been enriched by these experiences. In paying tribute to the sorrowing wife, he said she typified the story of Ruth and had truly been a helpmate and a comfort to deceased. He spoke on the Purpose and Meaning of Life and urged his listeners to prepare as deceased had prepared to face their records when life's race was run.

Mrs. Sara Ivey and Reese Gibb sang the Duett 'Cast thy Bread Unon the Waters.'

J. W .Evans, also a former Bishop of the 2nd Ward and now President of the High Prests Quorum, of which deceased was a member, paid tribute to him as a member of that Quorum, saying he had always been a faithful Latter-Day-Saint and was a credit to his Quorum. Three sons were serving in the Armed forces and he hoped they would be strengthened in their sorrow over their father's death & that all members of the family would continue to carry on as they had done. He paid tribute to Mrs. Hawkins for her unselfish devotion to the children of both families and spoke of the resurrection and the fact that we would soon all be together again in eternity.

In closing Bishop Palmer thanked all for their assistance during the illness and death of Bro. Hawkins. The choir sang 'Sweet is the Work' and the benediction was pronounced by Elder T. O. King.

A large cortege followed the remains to the cemetery where interment was made with Christensen Bros. in charge.

Stirling Over The Top

On Wednesday night a Gala elebration was held in Stirling to mark the oeeasion. An excellent program was arranged with the Schools partieipating in the event.

Last Loan Stirling sold Bonds to the extent of $15,000.00 which was noteworthy, but so far this Loan they have sold over $18,000.00 which is a magnificent achievement.

Mrs. Elodia Christensen and her 2 daughters were responsible for this excellent effort under the leadership of Mr. Hardy, and great credit should be given them for this very fine showing.

Jas. H. Walker Unit organizer for the Raymond Unit, and Lee Brewerton Publie Relations Chairman were present and spoke, congratulating that organization.

Elders A. F. Bullock and A. A. Wide were speakers at the Raymond 2nd Ward Sacrament meeting Sunday evening and gave very interesting talks.

Victory Essays

WHY RAYMOND SHOULD SUPPORT THE SIXTH VICTORY LOAN

By Floyd Larsen, Grade XII

Going, Going and soon gone will be the ehance of a lifetime. Never before have we been given sueh a golden opportunity. The Sixth Vietory Loan has opened up the Highway to Peace and Prosperity. Vic.ory lies at the side of the road. We reach it, then speed on toward peace. Prosperity, for those who have invested wisely throughout the gloom and urest of war years, lies only a short distance beyond the valley of peace. But, this highway is built upon a foundation of patriotism and is paved with War Bonds. Without the foundation, we the travellers, will sink into the quieksands of treason. Withoire the paved surface we will be very apt to stiek in the bog-holes of lost opportunities. The better the pavement the further and faster we ean travel. Whether we sink and fail to reaeh even the first goal, vietory; or whether we speed on rapidly to ultimate prosperity depends upon the quality of the pavement whieh we, patriotie eitizens, must build.

By far the best investment of all time is the war bond. No higher interest is paid by any financial institution. No better seeurity can be offered. No savings can be as safe. Can we hope for a better investment?

We, the patriotic eitizens of the Raymond distriet, are given an opportunity to make a gilt edged investment in this, our country. We are the privileged. We are the honored. We are the blessed. No. better farming land exists than this of ours. No loeality can be found which offers more opportunities to business and industry. Our industry and eeonomy have plaeed us in a position to purchase vietory and peaee and pave the highway to our own prosperity.

Without considering our hearts, which rule the mind and body, we realize the importance, the downright necessity for us to buy war bonds. Our hearts dietate even beyond these boundaries of thought. Let us pause and think just a moment of what others are doing. On the seas, floating quietly on oeean swells, or tossing and lurching on wind troubled waters, are our boys of the Navy. They risk their lives and much besides, supported by a craft whieh may at any moment plunge into a wave for the last time. On land marching, running, jumping for their lives are our Army boys. They sleep standing in stagnant waters. They wallow through sloughs, and lie concealed for days at a time, doing their part toward vietory. In the air, flying thru clouds and storm, faeing sheets of deadly lead, limping back sometimes, to the home base, our airmen do their part. We are proud of these men and boys. We hope for their welfare. We pray for their safety. We glory in their triumphs and we sorrow over their defeats. We ean do more. It is our duty to do more. It is our duty to help win the war by the means open to us. The Sixth Vietory Loan is the means. Can any of us ignore the supreme sacrifice of our friends and loved ones? Can we eonseientiously say that it is not our duty to buy War Bonds? If we have a mind to think with; if we have a heart that beats in sympathy for those dear to us; if we have a soul that eries out for peace; then we must BUY BONDS.

WHY RAYMOND SHOULD SUPPORT THE SIXTH VICTORY LOAN

By Stephen Wood, Grade XI

Seene 1:

SOMEWHERE IN EUROPE

Exhausted, you dropped off to sleep that night with terror in your heart. Outside the moon shone clear and bright and eonstellations formed glittering diamond patterns in the sky. You dreamed of fishing on a quiet stream and lying in the cool grass and laughing at the antics of a 'twitterpated' colt; scenes that, for you, would never be re-eacted. You awoke with a start, the bombs had started falling, eoming closer, closer. The whine of a 'ticketed' one pierced the air and you scuttled to the shelter only to find your mother missing. Starting up the stairs you discovered it was too late for, even then the bomb struck you on the floor and a heap of the rubble that had been your home lay heavily on an injured back. The city is quiet now and only the smoke and roaring of huge fires remains. You dragged yourself to look for your mother but you didn't have to look far. Will you ever forget that horrible sight? Will you ever forget the scorched arm sticking up helplessly from under the blazing timber?

Seene II Raymond

On the same night in Raymond my only thought was of tomrrow's school How far from me, from all of us, was the war that night. And yet haven't we all brothers or fathers, sons or sweethearts over there. Sure we're safe from Axis bombing but are our boys safe from the machine gun slugs and sharpnel that hisses day and night, on the battlefields of the world? Are the people of Britain, to whom we owe the preservation of our lives, safe from these attacks. The answer is emphatically no! Until the war is won our loved ones shall never be safe. We can't sit down and let some one else do all the suffering, bear all the pain and do all the work. The least we can do is to lend (I said lend, not give!) our money in order that this terrible period of destruction may be shortened. The sixth Vietory Loan is for the purpose of borrowing from you the money to smash and annihilate the forces which have been the cause of mortal fear in the hearts of millions of people. Lend your money to back the attack and put Victory First!

Mrs. Ellis S. Heninger Passes Away

Raymond was saddened again last Sunday evening as news spread in town about 8 p.m. of the passing of Mrs. Elsie Jacobs Heninger, after a lingering illenss. While not altogether unexpeeted, because of her condition, it was still a surprise to hear of her demise. She had suffered from a weak heart for a number of years and about four years ago she suffered a partial stroke which affected her speeeh She maintained a fair degree of health for two or three years, and then her heart condition continued to grow steadily worse until the end.

A woman of very fine character and rare temperament she had a host of friends who had been won by her kindness and her smile. She was a devoted wife and mother and leaves besides her husband, Ellis S. Heninger, a family of two sons and four daughters to mourn her passing. One son, Seymour, was drowned south of town several years ago. Deceased was 60 years of age.

Funeral serviees were held in the Stake House Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. with Bishop J. O. Hieken in charge. A large umber of friends of the family from all over Southern Alberta were present to show their respect to the memory of deceased and her family. The singing was in eharge of Ira McBride with Roi Stone at the organ and members of both ward choirs assisting in the singing. The lovely floral offerings eovered the casket and the rostrum baek of it.

The opening hymn was 'Tho' Deepening Trials' and prayer was offered by Elder O. H. Snow and the second hymn was 'Resting Now from Care and Sorrow.'

Bishop Ririe of the Magrath 1st Ward was the first speaker who spoke on the purposeof Life and Death, and explained the Resurreetion. He extolled the life of deceased, and urged all to pattern after her in patience, kindliness and good works. Our actions here condition our standing hereafter and we should all be concerned and live good lives to merit a joyous and happy eternity.

A voeal solo was sung by Reeee Gibb, 'There is No Joy Within My Sad Heart.'

Elder A. R. Briggs of Magrath, a neighbor and acquaintanee of the family for many years, spoke of the lovable and genial disposition of deceased, and the happiness she had radiated throughout her life. He said that with our understanding of the plan of eternal progression, it was natural for us to expect that she would be happy and busy in the spirit world. He read a number of tributes to deceased, written and requested to be read by a number of Magrath people who were unable to attend the funeral service.

Mesdames L.D. King and J. H. Walker sang a vocal duett, 'Jesus Remembers when the World Forgets.'

Elder J. Y. Card of Cardston, read da portion of the hymn 'Sister Thou Was Mild and Lovely' and spoke of the sweet and friendly spirit always exhibited by deceased. He felt that our spirits hovered near our earthly body until it was laid to rest, after which the spirit took its place and appointment in the spirit world. He paid tribute to the exemplary life of deceased and encouraged the members of the family to continue in good works so that they could meet with their mother when the span of mortality was finished.

Bishop Hicken spoke briefly of the fine charaeter of deceased, and of the sweet spirit of love which seemed to be present in the funeral. On behalf of the family he thanked all who had in any way assisted in word or deed in the sorrow of the family.

The closing song was 'We Lay Thee Softly Down to Sleep' and the benediction was pronounced by Prof. H. S. Allen.

A large procession followed the remains to the cemetery where interment was made with Christensen Bros. in charge.

THEY DO NOT FIGHT ALONE

Our purchase of Victory Bonds does not line us up as an active participant with the Canadian in battle dress in the grim battle being waged in Europe. We cannot fool ourselves on this point. For there is little or no sacrifice here in Canada that can be related even remotely to the hazardous life or death work in which our boys are engaged overseas.

Yet the purchase of Victory Bonds is vital to the well being of our men in battle for two reasons. First, the cash we thus provide maintains the flow of necessary material to the fighting forces. Secondly, and perhaps more important, the enthusiastic support which Canadians at home give to a Victory Loan informs the boys overseas better than any other method we have at our command that the hearts and minds of the overwhelming majority of folks back home are with them.

NEWS NOTES

Severa of the school rooms were dismissed Thursday while students participated in the Musical Festival in Lethbridge.

S.avely district won its third Victory Loan Pennant Tuesday when its total reached 150 per cent if its quota.

A great many, old and young have been ill this past week with larnygitis or summer flu or what have you. We have not heard of any serious cases but those afflicted have been very miserable.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Harker have taken up residence in Raymond and 'Jim' is in charge of the Mercantile Hardware Department. We welcome them to Raymond and wish them joy and happiness amongst us.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nilsson Mr. and Mrs. Keith Nilsson moved last Thursday to their new homes in the Rosemary district where both the boys have recently purchased farms. We wish them success in their new location.

Last Friday the High School students and staff climaxed Sadie Hawkins week with a parade of the business street and they really gave the crowd a big laugh with some of the costumes paraded. In the evening at the dance afternoon get ups were enarged upon and a really delightful evening was enjoyed, the judges having quite a job to choose winners out of such a bevy of costumes.

OUR FLAG

Some think it is nothing,
Some think it but a rag;
Others are proud and loyal,
They'e glad that it's their flag.

Every time I see it,
Flyin in the air;
I'm always thrilled and happy.
That it's waving poudly there.

The colors are red and white and blue,
They keep our ideals high.
They make us pure, and brave and true,
And not afraid to die.

RAYMOND LIONS MEET

Another very interesting meeting of the Raymond Lions Club was held in the Sugar own May 1st with Pres Golden Snow in the Chair.

'Oh Canada' was sung followed by prayer by Lion O. H. Snow.

Paul Moreland, Joe McLean and Ira McBride were appointed as a nominating committee for the Election of Officers.

The Club offered to help the Local Vets to have an Honor Roll erected on the Grounds in front of the Town Hall.

Lions Karl Wilde and Joe McLean were asked to make arrangements for a ball diamon at the Fair Grounds.

It was also decided to improve the Memorial Park Grounds for recreation purposes and Lions Dahl, Allan, and 'Mutt' Ralph were asked to be in charge of this matter.

The names of Butler Nalder, Ab Hague and W. Van Orman were brought up and passed on as future members of the Club.

The Club voted to purchase a $100.00 Victory Bond.

Community singing was enjoyed by all present under the leadership of Lion . T. King.

Pilot Oicer S. Smith then related some of his experiences during his courses. This talk was very educational and gave the members a few high lights on Aeroplane Navigation. A number of questions were asked which Sid answered.

After thanking Pilot Officer Smith for his talk the meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

FARM PAPER CATERS TO HOME DRESS MAKERS

Home dressmaking, the art of "making over, making do, and using what you have," is today practised extensively in Canadian homes—for, in wartime, it is both patriotic and economical to "make your own things."

For some women, the making of things at home began with sewing for the Red Cross, later developing into the making of simple household articles and clothing for the family. Most rural women always have made some of their own and their children's things, but, today, many are making almost all garments.

It is not surprising, therefore that the Family Herald and Weekly Star reports it is now furnishing more readers with patterns than at any time in its seventy-four years of service. During 1943, over 100,000 orders for dress patterns, crochet and embroidery patteers, etc, were filled.

In offering a wide variety of patterns at nominal cost, the Family Herald not only helps thousands of housewives meet their wartime budget, but enables them to convert household remnants and the family's old, discarded garments into precious articles of clothing, many of which cannot today be bought. Add to the Family Herald's Pattern Offers the practical dessmaking information given in its Women's Pages the healthful recipes, the timely economical wartime helps, and there you have sound reasons for the Family Herald's continued popularity in over 300,000 Canadian homes.
